

KIDS MESSAGE:

Hey kids! Putting out fires can be scary and very dangerous. Every day firefighters risk their lives to make sure others are safe.

But, firefighters cannot be everywhere. You can help them by becoming a National SAFE KIDS Campaign® Junior Fire Inspector. As a Junior Fire Inspector, you can help make a firefighter's job easier and maybe even save your life.

Inside this magazine you'll find games, puzzles and other fun things you can do with your parents and friends.

Are you ready? Then let's go!

MESSAGE TO ADULTS:

Did you know that residential fires and burns are the number one danger to children in the home? Each year about 1,200 children are killed and thousands more are injured.

Many people don't know that kids react differently to fire than adults. They often hide under beds or in closets thinking they are safe. Older children mistakenly think they can control the fire. Some fear blame, so they fail to alert an adult.

Teaching kids about fire safety may save their lives. That's why this magazine was written.

You can help children become National SAFE KIDS Campaign® Junior Fire Inspectors. Take the time to read this magazine with them. Help them with the activities and practice the prevention tips. You might just learn a thing or two about fire safety and prevention yourself!
